SUMMARY OF THE REASONS FOR DECISION:

Transsexual Climax 14 is a small magazine with very explicit photographs showing transsexual women engaging in sexual conduct with men, concentrating on the genitals of the participants. The photo-story depicting a doctor and nurse engaging a transsexual patient in sexual conduct, when she has come to discuss a sex change operation, is objectionable. It portrays that the doctor is excited by ignoring medical ethics and turning a medical examination into a sexual relationship. Any positive portrayal of the abuse of a medical or professional relationship of trust in this manner is considered to be injurious to the public good. The availability of the magazine is therefore likely to be injurious to the public good, and it is objectionable.
